Section 2 – Report

In September 2011, the Overview and Scrutiny Committee agreed the scope for this review (as included in the final report under Appendix D).

The review looked at how the Council can most effectively communicate and engage with young people in involving them in decision making and helping them be more effective in making a contribution to community life. By bringing together what the Council already knows about young people including their perceptions of the Council and opportunities to volunteer, this review also aimed to stimulate debate about how the Council, in times of austerity, can find new ways to involve young people in decision making as well as offer them opportunities to develop employability skills through volunteering.

This review undertook a number of different activities in order to build its evidence base:

- Desktop research
- Going out to talk to a number of national experts
- Visiting other local authorities
- Meeting with a number of local voluntary groups and stakeholders
- Holding a drop-in session for young people at the youth centre
- Running a focus group with young people
- Smaller meetings with members of Harrow Youth Parliament
- Meetings with key workers in Children’s Services and services for young people
- Discussions with the corporate director and portfolio holder
- Written survey for young people, distributed through a school council
- Survey used as a basis of conversations between youth workers and young people
- Social media – using scrutiny’s facebook and twitter accounts
- Residents’ panel survey
- Focus groups with young people with disabilities and their carers

The review was conducted in partnership with young people from the Harrow Youth Parliament and Harrow Mencap. The review group would like to thank all the young people of Harrow and everyone else who contributed to this review for their collective knowledge, stories and insight that has enabled the group to draw together its findings and develop its recommendations.
